2021 Australian Gold and Silver Investment Coin Programs

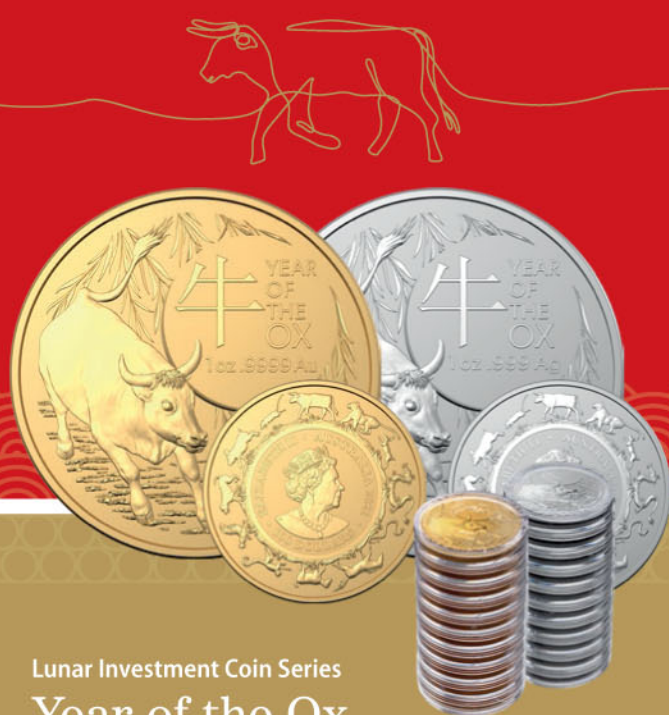

Mint Profile

The Royal Australian Mint is Australia's national mint and sole producer of circulating coins for Australia. It is a listed entity under the Public Governance, Performance and Accountability Act 2013 and operates within the Treasury portfolio.

The Mint was officially opened in Canberra in 1965. Its first tasks were to produce distinctively Australian coinage and facilitate a smooth changeover from British imperial pounds, shillings and pence to Australia's own decimal dollars and cents.

Today, the Mint also produces circulating coins for other countries, and manufactures a vast array of collector coins, investment products, medals and medallions for domestic and international clients. As a world-class mint of 56 years' standing, the Mint has been recognised as an industry leader in quality, technology and innovation.

Over the past couple of years, the Mint has extended its expertise to a new line of gold and silver investment products. As distinct from regular bullion, these investment coins are characterised by inspiring designs, limited mintage, a tremendous level of quality and a world-first security feature (on gold coins). As a safe and tangible form of investment, these coins provide an easy and affordable way to enter the precious metals market.

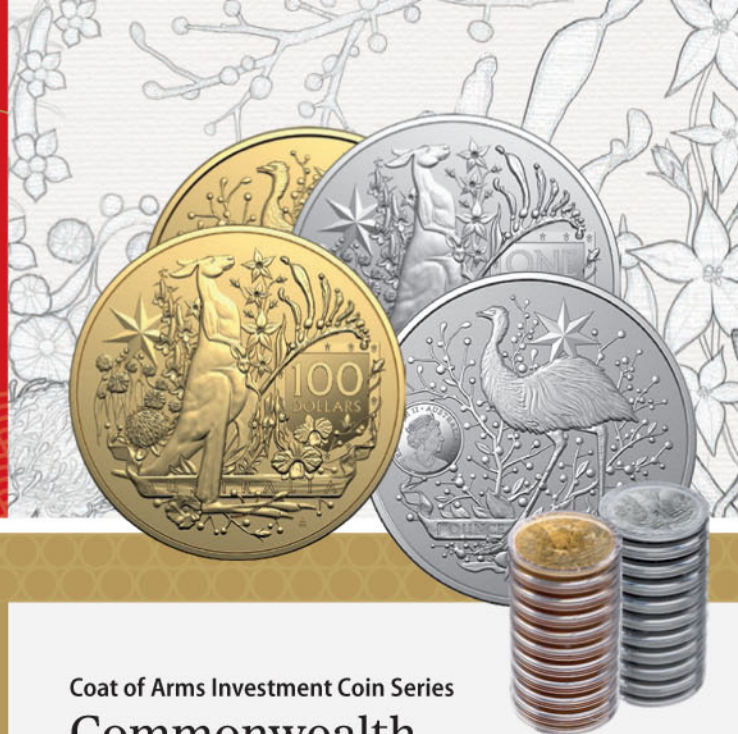

Lunar Investment Coin Series Year of the Ox

2021 marks the Lunar Year of the Ox and to celebrate, the Royal Australian Mint proudly presents the second Lunar Investment coin series. These coins are presented with a brilliant uncirculated finish and feature a bold bull, representing the hard working and honest characteristics of those born in the Year of the Ox. The Investment coins are now available in multiple weights of gold including 1oz, 1/2oz and 1/4oz.

Coat of Arms Investment Coin Series Commonwealth Coat of Arms

The 2021 $100 1oz Gold Investment Coin and $1 1oz Silver Investment Coin are the first coins of the Royal Australian Mint's new Australia's Coat of Arms Series. Inspired by the Commonwealth Coat of Arms and rich with historic significance, the coins feature a kangaroo and emu—both elements of the Commonwealth Coat of Arms signifying progress, as neither animal can move backwards.

Beneath the Southern Skies Investment Coin Series Beneath the Southern Skies

New release with New South Wales' animal emblem and new packaging designed for easier transport and storage.

The Royal Australian Mint is proud to present the 2021 $100 1oz Gold Investment Coin and 2021 $1 1oz Silver Investment Coin as the latest release in the Beneath the Southern Skies series. Quintessentially Australian, the design pays homage to Stuart Devlin, who designed Australia's first decimal coinage, and features a platypus in Sydney's position on a map of Australia.
